

Join the Royal Statistical Society today and save!

The Royal Statistical Society (RSS) is delighted to offer members of the Sociedad Colombiana de Estadística a 20% discount on their first year of RSS membership.

The Royal Statistical Society (RSS) is one of the world's leading organisations to promote the importance of statistics and data and we're a professional body for all statisticians and data analysts. Our active community consists of over 8,000 members globally, who work across a range of sectors and disciplines. So, whether you're a professional statistician, someone who uses data and statistics in your day-to-day work, or a student with an interest in real-life figures, RSS membership offers something for you.

The benefits of becoming an RSS member include:

- Improving your knowledge through access to Significance magazine and our journal series, which contain unique content on current statistical issues and methodological development
- Sharing best practice by participating in local and sector specific groups, meetings and webinars, as well as our online forums on the StatsLife website.
- Continuing your professional development through access to discounted training courses and our professional accreditation scheme through which you can work towards becoming a Graduate or Chartered Statistician.
- Having a voice through our member-led policy work and the opportunity to contribute to our internationally renowned publications.

We have partnered with the Sociedad Colombiana de Estadística to offer its members a 20% discount on our standard fellow fee (usually £138 per year). To claim your introductory discount, please fill in the attached application form and return to contacto@sce.org.co. Your subscription fee will cover your membership until 31 December 2018.

To find out more about the RSS and how membership can benefit you, please visit www.rss.org.uk/join.